

Legal information BEE

Version June 2021

This document is the exclusive property of Citeo and may not be used, reproduced, represented, transmitted or disclosed without its prior, express permission.

WEBSITE

This Website is published by Citeo, a public limited company with share capital of €499,444.50, registered with the Paris Trade and Companies Register under number 388 380 073, with its head office at 50 boulevard Haussmann, 75009 Paris, France.

Jean Hornain is the publications manager in his capacity as Managing Director of Citeo.

Graphic design and development are provided by the company Lycka, a limited liability company with share capital of €8,000, registered with the Mâcon Trade and Companies Registry under number 504 943 184, whose head office is located at 297 rue Michelet, 71000 Mâcon.

The Website is hosted by Citeo.

Certain free utility programs must be installed on your computer in order to access the entire Website.

Since this legal information may be amended at any time without any notice, we recommend that you consult it on a regular basis (last updated: February 2019).

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

The entire Website is governed by French legislation regarding copyright, trademark law, and generally speaking, intellectual property.

The Website and all of its elements (architecture, graphic standard, texts, photographs, illustrations, software, images, animated sequences, sounds such as music, sound effects, etc.) are owned by Citeo or third parties that have authorised Citeo to use and/or operate them.

All reproduction, representation and adaptation rights are reserved, including for downloadable documents, images and photographs.

In accordance with the terms of the French Intellectual Property Code, all reproductions, representations and adaptations of all or part of the Website or its elements, by any means, on any medium and for any purpose whatsoever, that are not first expressly authorised in writing by Citeo are illegal and constitute an infringement of copyright liable to criminal penalties.

As an exception to the above, Citeo authorises:

- the reproduction and representation of texts published on the Website on paper only for educational purposes;
- and downloading of elements expressly identified on the Website as being freely downloadable.

In any event, any reproduction or representation of all or part of the Website and/or any elements downloaded from the Website must include the copyright/ownership/credit information shown on the reproduced documents or downloaded elements.

Trademarks referred to or reproduced on the Website, in particular the Green Dot (a double arrow in a circle, with the two arrows interlinked around a central vertical axis), and the Citeo logotype are trademarks filed by Citeo or third parties that have authorised Citeo to include and/or use them. Any reproduction without the prior express permission of the holder of trademark rights is strictly prohibited and also constitutes an infringement of copyright.

The intellectual property rights governing use of the BEE software are governed by the BEE General Terms of Use.

PROTECTION OF PERSONAL DATA

Citeo respects users' privacy and complies strictly with the regulations in force on personal data protection.

In accordance with amended law no. 78-17 of 6th January 1978 ("Informatique et Libertés" law), users are informed that Citeo may process their personal data in several ways.

We recommend that users read the General Terms of Use for the Website. These provide detailed information on how their data are processed when they use the site.

Users should note that cookies may be saved on their devices when they browse the Website. Rules applicable to cookies are set out in the next section.

COOKIES

What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files that may be saved on users' devices when they visit websites. Cookies are capable of identifying devices on which they are saved throughout their validity period or for as long as they are saved.

The main purpose of cookies is to facilitate the user's experience and to enable Citeo to secure navigation. The maximum period of validity of the Website's cookies does not exceed 6 months.

Cookies used on the Website

Strictly necessary cookies - Citeo uses functional technical and navigational cookies for the proper functioning of the Website. These cookies allow the user to navigate on the Website and use our services. They are essential to the proper functioning of the Website and are therefore always enabled.

- Linguistic preferences: this cookie enables the user's linguistic preferences to be stored for consultation of the Website. This cookie does not collect any personal data.
- Session cookies: this cookie enables the user to connect to his/her account. It is essential to identify and authenticate users when they login.
- Cookie settings: our cookie management module keeps the user's choice on the deposit of cookies on his browser
- Performance analysis cookies (MATOMO): to enable us to measure the number of visits, the number of pages viewed and the activity of users on the Platform in order to measure the traffic and understand how it is used to ensure and improve its functioning, performance and ergonomics. These cookies allow us, for example, to detect navigation problems or to optimize the technical performance of the Platform. These cookies provide us with anonymous statistics of consultation and do not collect any personal data from you. The information collected is exclusively reserved for Citeo and is not transmitted to third parties.

Performance analysis cookies - The Website use the Google Analytics tracers in order to measure the number of visits, the number of pages viewed as well as the activity of the users on the Website and their frequency of return. This cookie allows us to measure the number of visits to the Website and to understand how the Website is used in order to ensure and improve its functioning, performance and ergonomics (audience measurement). The Google Analytics cookie allows us to produce aggregated and anonymized statistics of visits. On your first visit, a banner informs you of the presence of these cookies and invites you to indicate your choice concerning their deposit on your browser.

Google also collects and uses the navigation data collected for its own purposes, in accordance with its privacy policy: <https://policies.google.com/technologies/partner-sites?gl=fr>

Managing cookie use

Except for strictly necessary cookies, you can choose to accept or refuse the deposit of cookies and reconsider your choices at any time by clicking on the cookie icon on all pages of the Website. We keep your choices for 6 months.

The strictly necessary cookies used on the Website do not require the user's consent. However, the user can configure his browser to delete or systematically refuse these cookies during his navigation. A systematic refusal of cookies is likely to affect the proper functioning of the Website.

For further information on changing cookie settings, users should visit the website of the French data protection authority, CNIL or the following websites depending on their browser:

- Chrome
- Internet Explorer
- Firefox
- Opera
- Safari

HYPertext LINKS

The Website may include links to other websites belonging to third parties. These links do not in any way constitute approval, validation or support from Citeo for the content of these websites or any partnership between Citeo and the administrators, authors or hosts of such websites. As Citeo does not publish or monitor the sources, content or links featured on such websites, it may not be held liable for the content, performance or access to such websites or any proven or alleged damage or losses further to or related to use of the information, services or data available on such websites.

Furthermore, all administrators of websites or blogs are free to set up links to the Website's homepage, provided that the following conditions are all met:

- links must not be used for commercial or advertising purposes,
- the words "Citeo website" or any other equivalent or more precise wording must be indicated clearly in the link or next to it,
- the website on which the link is provided must not disseminate illegal, violent, controversial, pornographic, xenophobic information or information that may be contrary to public order or morality,
- the Citeo Communications Department must be notified prior to posting any links.

Any link to the Website that does not meet these conditions, for example, the posting of a deep hyperlink to a page of the Website or to a document other than a web page (such as a downloadable document) is prohibited without Citeo's prior written permission.

Similarly, it is strictly prohibited to even partially use or reproduce elements of the Website within third-party websites through so-called inclusion processes, frames, inlining, or any other similar processes.

LIABILITY

Citeo endeavours to ensure that the Website is constantly accessible and fully functional, and reserves the right to amend its content at any time and without any notice.

Citeo cannot guarantee that the Website will operate on an uninterrupted or continual basis and that it will be exempt from any technical problems or errors.

Citeo endeavours to enable access to the website 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, but may not be held liable in the case of unavailability of the Website, for any reason whatsoever or for any duration whatsoever.

Citeo may not be held liable for any damage, whether direct or indirect, commercial or otherwise, caused by logging in or using the Website and/or the information it provides. Similarly, Citeo may not be held liable for the consequences of force majeure events, failures or technical problems involving hardware, programs and software or the internet that may lead to the suspension or termination of the Website.

Furthermore, although Citeo endeavours to provide reliable content on the Website, it cannot guarantee that its content is exempt from errors or omissions and may not be held liable for any errors or omissions in the information provided on the Website.

Citeo reserves the right to modify, suspend or interrupt provision of all or part of the Website.

ACCESSIBILITY

Citeo, as a responsible eco-organisation, ensures that information on the website is accessible to all users, and in particular to individuals with impairments who use specialist technology for receiving or disseminating information. This Website has been designed in accordance with the requirements of W3C priority level 1.

APPLICABLE LAW

The Website is subject to French law.

Any use of it must be compliant with the legislation in force and will be deemed to take place within French territory.

Citeo reserves the right to bring any legal action against individuals acting in a way that may be considered illegal or unlawful or in breach of these terms.